SUPPLEMENT TO REPORT NO.

1. In mid-December 1950 two floating docks were observed about one sea-mile south of Sassnitz. The docks lay parallel with one another, and were apparently moored. A great many wires were stretched from both docks, but no ship was observed in connection with them.*
2. On the night of 3 January 1951 four vessels, believed to be minesweepers of the T-700 class, were observed at a point seven sea-miles east of Rantzau light, Stubbenkammer. The ships showed no lights, but lighted position-beacons when the observer approached to within about 500 meters.**
3. On 6 January 1951 the following vessels were observed in Osternothafen, Swinemünde:

Three minesweepers of the T-301 class.
Boats CK-490, CK-492 and CK-493.
The salvage ship "Teolent".
An old steamship of 1500 to 2000 tons, one funnel, with a name read by the observer as "Plastyrj".

Comment: The wires, running not from dock to dock but under the surface of the water, would indicate that a salvage operation was under way. The presence of the salvage ship "Feolent" in this area may be connected with the operation off Sassnitz.
